

Westhafen House

Frankfurt am Main, 2001 - 2003

Westhafen House, one of three free standing buildings on Westhafen quay, connects the new Westhafen quarter to the buildings on Speicherstrasse. Facing Westhafen Platz is a multi-storey building recess, resembling a large loggia, which provides views from the offices towards Friedensbrücke. The Westhafen House is a synthesis of an unusually shaped building which all the while offers an economic and efficient floor plan. Restaurants will take up most of the ground floor. The façade appears scaly and seems to accelerate or slow down the building, depending on the direction the viewer passes. The motive of the triangular connection between the three Westhafen buildings is subtly referred to with buildings facade elements.
